The Spokes

After a quarter of flawless editions of The Spokes, Merle Smith has completed her tenure as editor. It is a difficult job and she did with perfection. Please thank her when you see her next!

Last Meeting

Bruce Southstone led the club in an invocation with a weighty quote from Albert Einstein. President Randy Krassow then repeated his favorite Einstein quote, "whoa...that was a big explosion!"

Janene Adema Led us in the welcome song.

A special thanks to Sharon Caioca who uses all of her charms to get us in line and checked in.

Tom Canfield did NOT win the Raffle this week! Really! Hats off to Tom, who in the midst of his shock and disappointment, managed to pick up his spirits in time to complete his Sargeant-at-arms duties. The lovely Michelle Anderson, Esq. (some say she puts the "dish" in Judicial) was the actual winner. The prize was a nice bottle of red wine and a gift certificate to Clouds downtown, donated by Janet Krassow.

Detective Tom O'Rourke demonstrated his skills at the microphone in a dramatic show of style over substance. He fined Dan Aldridge for Cal beating Michigan State in Football (I didn't even know that Dan had suited-up!). All Brokaws present were pleased to pay a fine for Oregon State beating USC, and really, and who among us besides Chuck Downey can't cheer for that?

Representatives of Santa Cruz County Bank and Lighthouse Bank were fined for the positive article in the Sentinel that pointed out that both banks are in excellent shape. Rotary management is no doubt the key to their successes. The Financial advisors in the club were fined and asked for any reasons they may have for not panicking this week. They didn't have much.

Thanks to Donna Maurillo for the meeting pictures. Editor takes no responsibility for contents of the "thought bubbles".

Our Speaker was Jeffrey Scharff of Scharff Investments. In the most tumultuous week for the financial world in recent memory, Jeffrey had everyone's attention. Endeavoring to explain this situation, he cited the laws of supply and unintended consequences. The massive extension of easy credit created an artificially high demand for real estate. This led to mass quantities of Mortgage backed securities that ended up in the hands of all types of investors. Losses have been huge as sinking real estate prices have driven up foreclosures. Who is to blame? Almost everyone on all sides. Will we be okay? Definitely. The only question is when.
